Policy guidance provided: statutory policies but ones that require consideration at local level to ensure pupils' needs are fully met and local circumstances are taken into account. Central team provides policy guidance.

STATEMENT OF INTENT

The Oxford Diocesan Schools Trust (ODST) expects its schools to develop a curriculum underpinned by the National Curriculum, enhancing this with opportunities to make learning exciting and in a meaningful context for children both in and outside the classroom. Where commonality exists between subjects and aspects, learning may be linked and where this is not achievable, subjects may be taught discretely.

ODST places a strong emphasis on the development of the basic skills necessary to be confident independent learners and successful adults. This will help to develop a strong sense of moral purpose in addition to a respect and understanding of people who have different characteristics to themselves, whether that be faith, age, disability, gender, race or sexuality. A rigorous, well planned curriculum, delivered in an ethos of care, love and support will enable our pupils to be well rounded, empathetic young people who have a thirst for learning and respect for all around them.

Religious Education is delivered through the Locally Agreed Syllabus.

II INTRODUCTION

In September 2014, the Primary National Curriculum underwent some significant changes. This has provided our schools with an excellent opportunity to review and refresh their curricular offerings to the children in our schools to ensure that not only are the core skills and knowledge in English, Maths and Science covered, but also that the changes to other curriculum areas, are reflected in a broad and balanced approach to teaching the skills in the humanities, the arts and in physical and technological skills.

This statement is not a statement of prescribed curriculum design or the teaching style to be used which is a devolved responsibility of the local governing body. It is however a reminder of the statutory and advisory content of the curriculum decisions devolved to LGBs and the intention of trustees in so doing.

ODST Statutory Curriculum Policy Guidance

The Oxford Diocesan Schools Trust (ODST) promotes and encourages its member schools through its Local Governing Bodies (LGB) to provide compelling learning environments at the heart of all its learning communities. They promote care and respect and expect high standards in all aspects of school life. Each school's curriculum will offer a spiritual and moral basis for the development of each pupil's potential and a sure foundation for personal and social values based on the individual. It will provide a distinctive language for understanding life in all its fullness and interpreting human experience.

Our aim is to meet the needs of children and young people in our schools preparing them for the next phase in their education as part of becoming valuable and productive members of society and prepare them for their future life in the 21st century. Providing an education which

... stretches the mind, strengthens the body, enriches the imagination, nourishes the spirit, encourages the will to do good and opens the heart to others

The Way Ahead 2012

The trustees have devolved responsibility to individual LGBs to design and agree curriculum policies and statements which match the distinct needs of the schools within ODST. In so doing, trustees expect LGBs to have regard to the National Curriculum documents² and other curriculum guidance³ issued by the Department for Education. Trustees will, from time to time, issue guidance on a range of curriculum areas which it would expect its schools to follow when setting policy.

The educational vision and curriculum design for ODST recognises that:

- For children starting in an ODST school today, the world of 2025, when they leave education, will be very different to the world of today;
- the pace of change is increasing, hence the importance for flexibility;
- young people have, and will have increasingly, greater access to information and learning material independently of school;
- each school is a unique place with local needs and differences to which a centralised curriculum policy would be ill- matched to those demands;
- the current curriculum defined in subject terms is not always well suited to equipping every young person with the knowledge, skills and understanding they will need for a fulfilling adult life;
- curriculum delivery may involve a greater use of adults other than teachers. These could include support staff, graduates, artists, sports people and people from industry and business to support curriculum delivery.

ODST's curriculum statement is based on the following aims, to:

- offer a curriculum which is balanced and broadly based and which;
- encompass all learning and other experiences that each school plans for its pupils with the national curriculum will form one part of the school's curriculum;

- have and be able to use high quality literacy, numeracy and ICT skills;
- be challenged and stretched to achieve their potential;
- respect and understand their physical, emotional and moral development
- value their learning outside of the curriculum and relate to the taught curriculum.

2. The curriculum outcomes

2.1 Schools, as part of ODST, will design curricula which will:

- fulfil statutory requirements;

3. Roles and responsibilities

3.1 On behalf of the trustees of ODST, each school and its LGB will ensure that:

- all statutory elements of the curriculum, and those subjects which the LGB chooses to offer, have aims and objectives which reflect the aims of the Trust and indicate how the needs of groups of pupils will be met. This will include how the subject will be taught and assessed;
- the amount of time provided for teaching the curriculum is adequate and is reviewed by the governors' annually;
- where appropriate, the individual needs of some pupils are met by permanent or temporary disapplication from the national curriculum;
- the procedures for assessment meet all statutory requirements and pupils and their parents/carers receive information to show how much progress the pupils are making and what is required to help them improve;
- the LGB is fully involved in decision making processes that relate to the breadth and balance of the curriculum;
- the LGB is involved with the leadership team in each school in setting targets with the Trust in order to make informed evaluations on the overall effectiveness of the school and its provision.

- provide detailed and up-to-date schemes of learning to support the delivery of subjects and aspects of learning within their school which are monitored and reviewed on a regular basis;
- such schemes of learning will be designed using a school standard format and will contain curriculum detail on: context, expectations, key skills, learning objectives, learning outcomes, learning activities, differentiation and resources;
- schemes of learning encourage progression at least in line with national standards;
- levels of attainment and rates of progress are regularly discussed with leaders, managers, trustees and governors on a regular basis and that action are taken where necessary to improve these;
- long term planning is in place for all subjects and aspects of learning
- there is consistency in terms of curriculum delivery across each member school. Schemes of learning should be in place and be used by all staff delivering a particular subject or phase of learning;
- assessment is appropriate to the subject and the pupils following particular areas of learning. There should be consistency of approach towards assessment which will be recorded in the Trust tracking procedures using Target Tracker;
- schools share best practice with other colleagues in terms of curriculum design and delivery;
- CPD needs are reviewed with regard to curriculum planning and delivery within their area of responsibility.

3.5 Teaching staff and learning support staff will:

4. Monitoring, evaluation and review

4.1 The governing body will receive regular reports from the Headteacher on:

- the termly outcomes in the core subjects⁵ compared with national and local benchmarks for each year group focused on the progress current pupils are making;
- progress towards meeting targets across each phase;
