We are delighted that the Church of England (in partnership with the Catholic Education Service) will offer the full suite of NPQs to teachers and school leaders nationwide from November 2021.

Why take an NPQ?

National Professional Qualifications (NPQs) are a nationally recognised suite of qualifications for teachers and school leaders at all levels; from those who want to develop expertise in high quality teaching practice, to those leading multiple schools across a trust or other group of schools.

NPQ courses are designed to help you hone and expand the abilities you already have, helping you become a more effective leader inside and outside the classroom. Completing an NPQ will support you on the next step in your career by offering practical support and guidance, and the core knowledge you need to help your school improve further. Wherever your teaching career takes you, having an NPQ can help you demonstrate your continued commitment to and expertise in school leadership and specialist areas of teaching practice.

The updated suite of NPQs is launching in November 2021. The courses have been revised to reduce the workload burden on teachers, while still providing the opportunity to develop and apply their learning.

The three existing NPQs in Senior Leadership, Headship and Executive Leadership have been refreshed, ensuring that they are underpinned by the latest evidence of what makes effective teaching.

To better address the broad range of responsibilities of current and aspiring middle leaders, the existing Middle Leadership NPQ has been replaced with three new specialist NPQs. These specialist areas cover:

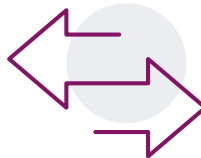

- Supporting the training and development of others, including early career teachers;
- Developing teachers who are subject leads or responsible for improving teaching practice in a subject or phase; and
- Developing teachers who have responsibilities for leading behaviour and culture.

These changes will ensure that NPQs continue to offer the best possible support to teachers and leaders in developing effective professional knowledge, skills and understanding.

Our Mission

Together, the Church of England and the Catholic Education Service operate 34% of the country's schools (6791), including over 70% of all small/rural schools. We are a current successful national NPQ provider and have trained over 500 leaders on the NPQH, with a 98% success rate.

Our mission is to develop school leaders to be CALLED to a lifegiving vocation, CONNECTED to a thriving learning community, and COMMITTED to evidence-informed excellence in education. This mission is outlined in our core leadership document: 'Called, Connected, Committed' (2020) available at www.cefel.org.uk/cc

Whether you are teaching a mixed-age class in a small rural primary school or leading a large MAT across a region, the new NPQ frameworks represent a return to the core purpose of educational leadership – leading a culture of teacher excellence.

Creating and sustaining such a culture means we can fully realise our vision for education that ensures every child flourishes, particularly those from disadvantaged backgrounds. Indeed, to pursue excellence in teaching is the most effective way to enact social justice for any community.

CALLED

#1 Teacher excellence at the heart of Leadership

Your first calling as a School Leader is to lead great teaching through building a culture of teacher excellence. The programme will inspire you afresh to place the art and craft of teaching at the heart of your vision for headship, and secure the best outcomes for children through the most effective approaches to classroom practice.

#2 Culture which shapes Leadership Practices

You will set the culture and define it by your expectations, actions and decision-making. Across all the specialist units, your leadership of culture will enable and equip your teams to secure the very best outcomes for every child in your care. Putting your ambitious vision into practice is complex, but each unit will help you to bring this vision alive.

CONNECTED

#3 Creating and sustaining Communities of Practice

We flourish together not alone. While leadership can be isolating at times, your training will embed you in vibrant professional networks, ensuring that your wisdom and wellbeing are strengthened by the community in which you are learning.

#4 An Expert Coach for Every Leader

A significant proportion of all programmes will be spent with your expert coach, who will guide you through the programme, enhance your understanding of the research and enable you to deliberately practice all the new skills you are acquiring through the knowledge-rich curriculum.

COMMITTED

#5 Effective Role-Specific Application of Knowledge

This programme is not just about acquiring knowledge, but applying it effectively. That has to be specific to your role as a school leader, enabling you to understand deeply the research evidence of what works, and then put into practice in new and unfamiliar contexts.

#6 Social Justice and Serving the Common Good

Ultimately, what is this all for? Our Vision for Education (for all schools, not just church schools) is centred on the flourishing of children and adults through Educating for Wisdom, Hope, Community and Dignity. Leading excellence in teaching is the most effective way to enact social justice for any community.

Why complete your NPQ with us?

The core principles of our approach are domain-specific knowledge entitlement, expert-led coaching, evidence-based knowledge application leading to a culture of teacher excellence.

All of this is underpinned by a rigorous approach to research, overseen by our Expert Research Challenge Group. This group is made up of leading academics working with us on programme design, expert input and challenge: Toby Greany (chair), Sam Twiselton, Cat Scutt, Tanya Ovenden-Hope, Bill Lucas and Philippa Cordingley.

In addition, we will offer the Additional Support Offer (a fully funded programme of support for new headteachers) in partnership with our regional networks of Diocese Education Teams, and our Peer Support Network. These networks are currently home to over 1200 member schools and focus on a variety of leadership issues and contexts, including those especially for secondary schools, rural schools and MAT leaders.

Our programmes will also ensure a strong combination of instructional and transformational leadership approaches to ensure that participants engage strongly with the knowledge base and are also inspired to bring it life in their vision-driven leadership practices and ethical decision making.

Creating and sustaining a culture of teacher excellence means we can fully realise our vision for education for every child.

Nigel Genders, Chief Education Officer for the Church of England and Paul Barber, Director of the Catholic Education Service

Completing your NPQ with the Church of England (in partnership with the Catholic Education Service) will give you the added benefits of:

Small group expert coaching for every leader on every programme, accredited in partnership with Chartered College of Teaching and Leadership Matters

Learning alongside peers with shared commitment to vision-driven education (including focus on rural and small schools)

Expert facilitators from high-performing MATs/schools, Teaching School Hubs supported by leading academics bringing the research base alive

Support for your wellbeing and personal growth through our extensive Peer Support Networks and Diocesan Education teams

What a joy it was to hear the journeys and the impact the course had on the participant's own leadership. It is also great that four out of five are now headteachers within the Diocese which is really positive from a succession point of view.

Andrew Smith, Diocesan Director of Education, Diocese of York.

The Church of England's offer is integral to our vision for the professional development over the next 4 years. We are thrilled to be working with such a high quality partner and look forward to many of our leaders developing with the Church of England in their career pathway through the full suite of qualifications.

Laurie Kwissa, CEO, Liverpool Diocese Schools Trust

The best CPD I have ever received. My leadership thinking and practice have been challenged, informed and transformed – this programme has had a major impact on my knowledge, confidence and vision as a leader.”

NPQH Participant 2021, West Midlands

As a leader of a small rural school, I often feel that CPD offers are so focused on bigger school contexts in cities. It's quite different leading in a rural community. These programmes have been so excellent for helping me lead in this context effectively and see the opportunities (rather than the challenges!) of amazing rural education.

Rural School Leader, Cornwall

I would like to thank you for the amazing communications that support the programme. Your reminders are keeping me really organised compared to other courses I've been on. The support organisation is first class and the resources are such high quality that, although times are difficult in education, the course is keeping me positive!”

Beyond the Classroom

Peer Support Networks

The power of school leaders working together to support one another has never been more important. We have created a range of different Peer Support Networks to further build a movement of leaders committed to transformational change, through collaborative coaching, challenge and research.

The extensive networks we offer seek to 'develop inspirational leaders, who are called, connected and committed to delivering the Church of England's vision for education'. The Foundation's Peer Support Network is now working with over 1200 member schools.

Research and resources

The Church of England Foundation for Educational Leadership is committed to underpinning all of its work with an academically rigorous approach to research at all levels. Through a range of strategic Higher Education partnerships, it commissions and resources research projects on a range of leadership development issues.
